Are humans unique in having self-reflective consciousness? Or can precursors to this central form of human consciousness be found in non-human species? The Missing Link in Cognition brings together a diverse group of researchers who have been investigating this question from a variety of perspectives, including the extent to which non-human primates, and, indeed, young children, have consciousness, a sense of self, thought process, metacognitions, and representations. Some of the participants--Kitcher, Higgins, Nelson, and Tulving--argue that these types of cognitive abilities are uniquely human, whereas others--Call, Hampton, Kinsbourne, Menzel, Metcalfe, Schwartz, Smith, and Terrace--are convinced that at least the precursors to self-reflective consciousness exist in non-human primates. Their debate focuses primarily on the underpinnings of consciousness. Some of the participants believe that consciousness depends on representational thought and on the mental manipulation of such representations. Is representational thought enough to ensure consciousness, or does one need more? If one needs more, exactly what is needed? Is reflection upon the representations, that is, metacognition, the link? Does a realization of the contingencies, that is, "knowing that," in Gilbert Ryle's terminology, ensure that a person or an animal is conscious? Is true episodic memory needed for consciousness, and if so, do any animals have it? Is it possible to have episodic memory or, indeed, any self-reflective processing, without language? Other participants believe that consciousness is inextricably intertwined with a sense of self or self-awareness. From where does this sense of self or self-awareness arise? Some of the participants believe that it develops only through the use of language and the narrative form. If it does develop in this way, what about claims of a sense of self or self-awareness in non-human animals? Others believe that the autobiographical record implied by episodic memory is fundamental. To what extent must non-human animals have the linguistic, metacognitive, and/or representational abilities to develop a sense of self or self-awareness? These and other related concerns are crucial in this volume's lively debate over the nature of the missing cognitive link, and whether gorillas, chimps, or other species might be more like humans than many have supposed. Their life together is one of the greatest love stories in American History. First written over fifty years ago, the author was motivated to redeem Mary Lincoln in the eyes of the fifth graders she was teaching who were getting lies from books in the library. It is time Americans show her respect. It has been a long wait and many attempts to get this book published. Innovation's Missing Link is not just another book about innovation or about some secret to successful innovation. It is a comprehensive and holistic discussion about the universal process of innovation as well as many insights into human nature and management skills. It goes where no book on innovation has gone before. Its style is narrative and numerous true stories are used to add entertainment value, drive home key points, and add to the experience of the reader. Rather than using endless statistics to create credibility, the author draws on 37 years of practical experience and common sense. Most people can recognize the ring of truth and don't require a lot of supporting data if the premise is reasonably stated. Above all else, this book respects the time constraints that most of us find ourselves battling every day. This is a reader-friendly book, in that it places the burden of communication on the writer. The reader is told the essence and value of the ideas presented before the themes are developed and then the key points are briefly summarized at the end of each chapter. There is never a need to skim ahead searching for important information or the essence of a concept all the fluff has been eliminated and the reader is never left wondering where she is being led. A brief introduction discusses the author's credentials as well as the purpose, premise, and goal of the book. The expected value of the information is individually summarized for Senior Executives, New Products Managers, Marketing Managers, and Students. Part 2 summarizes the author's experience with topics related to innovation such as patents, focus groups, and underserved markets. Part 3 summarizes the material presented in Parts 1 and 2. A three chapter Addendum addresses the rising trends of spirit in the workplace and socially conscious capitalism. This section also introduces "The Slinky Principle." New and provocative ideas are blended with time-tested processes throughout the book. The primary objective is to identify what works and processes that improve efficiency

In den späten Jahren des 19. Jahrhunderts trat ein junges Mädchen in Völkerschauen und diversen Veranstaltungen auf, um das Publikum zum Staunen zu bringen. Ihr Name war Krao und sie schien Merkmale von Affen und Menschen in sich vereinen. Der Körper war gänzlich mit Haaren bedeckt, sie schien in ihrer Mimik und ihrem Verhalten mehr einem Primaten zu entsprechen, als einem modernen Menschen. So trat sie als Darwins Missing Link auf und zog die Aufmerksamkeit auf sich, da die Evolutionslehre nach Charles Darwin ehemals noch nicht als allgemeingültig anerkannt wurde. Bereits damals vertraten Ärzte und Naturwissenschaftler die Meinung, dass es sich bei Krao um einen seltenen Fall von ausgeprägter Hypertrichose handeln könne, einer Erkrankung, die zu übermäßigem Haarwuchs führt. Im Laufe der Jahre geriet die Geschichte um das Mädchen Krao daraufhin in Vergessenheit. Erst in jüngerer Vergangenheit wurde der Fall im Zusammenhang mit Untersuchungen auf dem Gebiet der Hominologie innerhalb der Kryptozoologie wieder aufgegriffen, da man Verbindungen zu Beschreibungen wilder Menschenwesen, wie etwa dem Yeti oder den Almas, vermutete. Nach Ansicht des russischen Hominologen Michael Trachtengerts könnte Krao tatsächlich ein Missing Link in der Evolutionsgeschichte des Menschen darstellen, ein Wesen, das nahe mit dem Menschen verwandt ist und verborgen in den Wäldern existiert. In diesem Buch wird die Akte Krao nach über 120 Jahren nochmals aufgerollt und betrachtet. War sie tatsächlich nur ein Mensch mit einer seltenen Erkrankung? Oder doch ein Kind von Wildmenschen? History has shown that having a competitive advantage is critical to the success and long-term viability of all organizations. However, creating and sustaining such an advantage is a challenge. Organizations must formulate a winning strategy, surpass competitors at implementing and executing it, and excel at adapting in response to internal and external events. Although organizations have applied numerous best practices to help them succeed in their strategic endeavors, they still face serious difficulties, which they can only surmount by adopting business architecture. The goal of this book is to describe what business architecture is; how it can help meet the challenge of formulating, implementing and executing an organization's strategy; and how to build and exploit a superior strategy management system that leverages business architecture. With reference to India. There is a key to finding the deepest fundamental or unifying point of all our astrology systems, which is precisely what this book and its title 'The Missing Link in Astrology' is all about. Step by step I will show you how this missing link is actually based on the fifth harmonic, brought to life by the precession of the equinoxes and, combined with the twelfth harmonic, forming the basis or unifying point of all astrology systems. There is a previously unrecognized but especially strong connection here between Western and Chinese astrology. This oriental art with its twelve animal Year signs happens to incorporate precisely the same twelfth harmonic energy as we use in our own Western—and Eastern— twelve zodiac signs. The main difference is that oriental astrologers of old recognized the vital importance, and hence the usage and inclusion in their oriental science, of the all-important and amazingly creative fifth harmonic, or to put it another way 'The spark of divinity'. Die großen Fragen behandeln grundlegende Probleme und Konzepte in Wissenschaft und Philosophie, die Forscher und Denker seit jeher umtreiben. Anspruch der ambitionierten Reihe ist es, die Antworten auf diese Fragen zu präsentieren und damit die wichtigsten Gedanken der Menschheit in einzigartigen Übersichten zu bündeln. Im vorliegenden Band Evolution widmet sich Francisco Ayala 20 bedeutenden Fragen zu Ursprung und Entwicklung des Lebens auf der Erde, zur Vielfalt der Organismen und zur Stellung des Menschen. The Art of Missing Link is a lushly illustrated volume that goes behind the scenes of LAIKA's new stop-motion adventure. The charismatic Sir Lionel Frost (voiced by Hugh Jackman) considers himself to be the world's foremost investigator of myths and monsters. The trouble is none of his small-minded high-society peers seems to recognize this. Sir Lionel's last chance for acceptance by the adventuring elite rests on traveling to America's Pacific Northwest to prove the existence of a legendary creature. A living remnant of Man's primitive ancestry. The Missing Link. Zach Galifianakis voices Mr. Link: the surprisingly smart, funny and soulful beast upon whom Sir Lionel's dreams depend. As species go, he's as endangered as they get; he's the last of his kind, and he's lonely. Proposing a daring quest to seek out his rumored distant relatives, he enlists Sir Lionel's help in an odyssey around the world to find the fabled valley of Shangri-La. Together with Adelina Fortnight (voiced by Zoe Saldana), an independent and resourceful adventurer who possesses the only known map to the group's secret destination, the unlikely trio embarks on a riotous rollercoaster of a ride. Along the way, our fearless explorers encounter more than their fair share of peril, stalked at every turn by dastardly villains seeking to thwart their mission. Through it all, Mr. Link's disarming charm and good-humored conviction provide the emotional and comedic foundation of this fun-filled family film. From LAIKA, the animation studio behind the Academy Award-nominated Kubo and the Two Strings, Missing Link is a stunning stop-motion epic and raucous comedy. Featuring concept art from the film's creation—including sketches, storyboards, character designs, and much more—and illuminated by in-depth interviews with the film's creative team, The Art of Missing Link is a must-have companion to the film. anthropologist's twenty-year quest in northern and eastern Africa shows how findings from a variety of fields contribute to a holistic picture of human evolution and provide a context for understanding today's problems. Curated Shopping heißt der Trend, der die Lücke zwischen Online- und Offline-Handel schließen soll. Übersetzt bedeutet der Ausdruck nichts anderes als "betreuter Einkauf" und beschreibt damit treffend, womit Online-Händler in Zukunft beim Verbraucher punkten wollen: Sie bringen ihre Waren und Dienstleistungen zwar natürlich nach wie vor übers Internet an den Mann oder an die Frau, liefern aber die Beratungsleistung inklusive - zum Beispiel via Telefon. Alejandra Rodriguez, Ali to her friends and family, remembered when the Darjah came to Earth, with their frighteningly huge flagship engulfed in flames as it broke the atmosphere. The Darjah were refugees, displaced and losing a galactic-scale war. Earth was afraid, Humans were afraid - And with good reason. The enemy of the Darjah would follow them to Earth in time: The Infinium. In this war, the females of the Darjah were lost, either killed or taken by the Infinium for who knows what ends. Without a means to repopulate, the remaining Darjah males would eventually die out; a slow and dishonorable death of a warrior species. Twenty-one years later, when a gene conversion was finally successful, Ali was among the first few to submit her application to the Merge Initiative; A breeding program set up as a means to help the Darjah population come back from the brink of death. Ali was going to be part of something important, bigger than anything before in all of Human history. She would leave behind everything that made her genetically Human, stare down the unknown in its metaphorical eyes, and embrace an alien culture with an alien mate. With pride in her heart and a taste for adventure, Ali stepped onto the alien ship; ready to start her new life and do her part to save the universe. -----This book is not meant for young audiences, +18 only, and contains sexual content and adult themes. In this book you will discover the truth—that Homo passiens is the missing link in human evolution. That Homo sapiens is a recently arrived imposter in the evolution of the genus Homo—a charlatan, a fraud, a villain, a quack! That all the academic stuff about consciousness, language, science, and so on, emanating exclusively from (and created by) Homo sapiens is evolutionary hogwash! It all came not from Homo sapiens—as this recently arrived, pathological lying subspecies claims repeatedly in schools, textbooks, literature, and all institutions of higher learning—but from the founder species, Homo passiens—Man the Footballer! As evidenced in this book, humans evolved two legs for football, domed head and flat face for subtle and powerful heading, and flat and levered feet with non-opposable big toes for shooting. We all love to be clever, and this book is to be associated with its seminal ideas and not necessarily read from left to right. The thinking fans will want to be associated with the mad science presented here. Man the Footballer also contains a foreword by Irvine Welsh, author of the bestseller Trainspotting. After reading this book, football will never be the same again! Catalog of reports, decisions and opinions, testimonies and speeches. When tracing the course of development of ancient Greek historiography, one comes upon an astounding time gap of about 150 years, stretching from around the middle of the 3rd century to the end of the 4th century AD. In the first half of the 3rd century a rather numerous line-up of historians writing in Greek came to an end with Dio Cassius and Herodian. The lack of well-known Greek historians and extant works from this period is all the more surprising that in the history of Imperium Romanum this was a clearly defined, significant period of great political, economic, religious and cultural changes and breakthroughs. Among others, this time brought the emergence of Christian historiography. Eusebios of Caesarea wrote the first Ecclesiastical History and a Universal Chronicle. This was also a period of great development in Christian polemic literature, which used historical motives for apologetic purposes and propaganda. This heyday of Christian historiography, compared to a surprising decrease in the number of known histories written in Greek by Pagan authors, formed the basis for a theory of the fall of Pagan historiography in the second half of the 3rd century and in the 4th century. This book discusses the controversy surrounding evolutionary theory and religious thought. Debates have mostly centered on the origin of species, but this book focuses on the origins of consciousness, thought, and the self while also considering the relationship between God and science. Understanding cross-border flows of disembodied knowledge, often associated with intellectual property (IP), is essential to analyzing how modern economies operate. This paper documents how available data to document these IP flows are distorted by various factors, including tax planning by multinational enterprises. It finds that tax-induced mismeasurement could be more than 35%, and greater for individual countries particularly high-tax-rate countries.
